I took the exam three times the second time I couldn't afford to extend my course to take the final exam. So a Sue Sawyer from Career Step asked me to write two great reviews to Google and to the Better Business Bureau to extend my course for free since I was on fixed income and couldn't afford to put anymore money in the course.

I signed up for Career Step's program before it lost its accredited stratus. I'm close to the end of the program, in the "practicum" portion, and I'm losing my mind a little. I don't feel like my knowledge is where it should be at this point, and the support department can take weeks to respond now that questions require a coder to answer.
