[Read Online] Circuit Francisco Jimenez Chapter Summaries

Francisco is a young boy living in a tiny Mexican village with his mother (Mamá), father (Papá), older brother Roberto, and little brother Trampita. The family works very hard but are poor, and they live in a tiny house without electricity or running water.

Jimenez writes about his experience living and working in labor camps and tent cities with his family, and the many long years of intermittent schooling and constant migration from one California city to another, following the growing seasons. Jimenez paints a portrait of his life in distinct moments, from his early childhood up to eighth grade.
