13/7/2020 · It just means to mix your tracks together at points in the songs which make sense. Almost all music that you will be DJing is in 4/4 time, whether you play electronic dance music, hip-hop, funk, or top 40. Technically, this means is that there are four beats in a measure (bar), and that the quarter note gets one beat. The takeaway is that you need to learn how to count to four, as most "DJ-able" music is 4/4. ...

12/7/2019 · Sexy noise-makers are the focus here, but there's also a vast number of accessories that can make your mobile music more professional. IK Multimedia is the master of the interface (with the iRig range from £40), while Focusrite chips in with the not-quite-pocket-sized iTrack One Pre (£85) and iZotope has a complete studio with Spire (for bigger physical and financial pockets at £336).

There are a few different ways people make those musical patterns. Some have an idea in their head – like a melody or chorus line – and try to recreate it in the studio. Or you can have a bunch of sounds on the keyboard in front of you and just play around on it – freestyle – until you come up with something that sounds ...

23/10/2018 · Not a track however that properly represents Big BIg Train. The other tracks are all good ones, I love each of them, particularly Uncle Jack, Swan Hunter and Curator of Butterflies, but when all is said and done, the only thing from Make Some Noise that is not on EE Full Power, are the slightly shorter versions of 2 songs.

20/10/2013 · It is the perfect autumn anthem. It has become personal. Also, the album includes some of the finest tunes from EE1 and 2, such as the charming, 'Uncle Jack' (love it when the lady sings, 'honeysuckle') and the gorgeous 'Swan Hunter'. 2 more new tracks, the piano based instrumental, 'Edgelands' and 'The Lovers', are both lovely as well.
