21/8/2018 · Here's an excerpt from a journal entry I did a few days ago, I really feel like I've finally "got it" after almost 2 years of struggling with anxiety, and at this time I wanted to write down exactly how I felt so I could remember it and what I was doing that made me feel so much better (usually the writing would be another way of trying to "quick fix" the anxiety in the past, but ...

The therapy time is up. I give Ellen a sheet which details the EFT procedure and suggest Ellen practice on her own, and then decide whether to have another session before she goes overseas. Some days later, Ellen's mother tells me: "When Ellen came home from seeing you, she said 'I am very happy'".

You see I time travelled twice (very easily) back in the early 1990s with a friend of mine, without even trying and without appreciating what the Schumann resonance was. One time was back to around 1866 (I had lots of clues!) and the other time was only between 10-20 years back in time - ...

In this, our fifth annual 5 Over 50, we meet five authors—ranging in age, from early fifties to early seventies, and published by presses large and small, from Cleveland's independent Belt Publishing to New York City's Big Five imprints—who followed their passion, dedicated themselves to their craft, and pursued with dogged perseverance a dream undiminished by career building, child ...

THE STRAND MAGAZINE The Mystery of J. H. Farrer. By E. TEMPLE THURSTON. Illustrated by W. J.H. Margetson, R.I. IV. T "half-past seven the next morning came Lizzie, the housemaid, to pull the curtains and open the French window of the smoking-room to the bright air of another day.

prose_contemporary Allison Pearson I Don't Know How She Does It. A victim of time famine, thirty-five-year-old Kate counts seconds like other women count calories. As she runs between appointments, through her head spools the crazy tape-loop of every high-flying mother's life: client reports, bouncy castles, Bob The Builder, transatlantic phone calls, dental appointments, pelvic floor ...

This year my girlfriend and I got our first jobs out of college. It was a big moment for each of us and one we won't soon forget. We got offers that we wanted at places that value us and the work that we do. I'm grateful to have her and my new job. It's a changing time in our lives. We will soon move out and start our own lives as young adults.

We started trying to have children when I was 32 (now 35). Unfortunatley I have had fertility problems from stage IV Endometriosis. I've now been told I need IVF. My specialist has also asked me to consider lap band surgery to ensure a successful pregnancy. He doesn't see it as a big deal, but I sure do!

Sure in this case it didn't happen in 60 seconds, but it might be worth their time to give it 15 or 20 min. Usually this is all it takes. More Than They Expected It is a phenomena that I have noticed mostly with the clients that I work with regularly, especially when we are working on an issue that has many aspects that requires multiple sessions (like weight loss or multiple traumatic memories).

3/11/2016 · Fast-forward to our earlier 40's, you know, that time when we start noticing lines around our eyes, loosen the belt to the next hole, and grunt when we stand up. These are the typical signs of normal wear and tear that come with age, but my healthy husband seemed to ...

Jodi Picoult. Sing You Home. Every life has a soundtrack. All you have to do is listen. Music has set the tone for most of Zoe Baxter's life. There's the melody that reminds her of the summer she spent rubbing baby oil on her stomach in pursuit of the perfect tan. A dance beat that makes her think of using a fake ID to slip into a nightclub. A dirge that marked the years she spent trying to ...

I had it inserted under general anesthetic & a few little bits & pieces done at the same time 2.5 weeks ago & although tender afterwards I was delighted that the years of misery would be over. However, they are not - I have had horrific lower abdominal & pelvic pain every single day since - it's so bad that I am doubled over in pain & just eating Difene & Nurofen Plus like smarties.

Welcome!
